

Fair Work Focus Seminar Series 2010

Employment Law Practical Handbook Editor-in-chief, Charles Power, will lead a series of seminars on the Fair Work Act.

The commencement of the National Employment Standards and modern awards in 2010 raises different implications for different industries. Holding Redlich has developed a series of seminars to assist your organisation to deal with the new requirements.

- Thursday 11 March
Fair Work Focus on Media, Advertising and Entertainment - This seminar will assess the new requirements posed by the Fair Work Act for this industry, with particular emphasis on the operation of the new modern awards in the sector.
- Tuesday 16 March
Fair Work Focus on Building and Construction - This seminar will look at the implications of the Fair Work Act and the amendments proposed to the Building and Construction Industry Improvement Act for employers. It will examine the framework for collective bargaining and industrial action created by this legislation.
- Wednesday 17 March
Fair Work Focus - This seminar will look at the implications of the Fair Work Act more generally for employers and review what needs to be done to ensure compliance with the new laws.
